

The Best Ménage à Trois You'll Experience This Year at The Edinburgh Festival

Glass half full or half empty? Find out in Scott Major's playwriting debut exclusively at the Edinburgh Festival this summer, 'Both Sides of the Bar.'

The comical tale of a ménage à trois with a twist, explores the difference between our dreams and the reality of achieving them. Set in a bar, the story revolves around three main characters, an optimistic barman who wants to be an actor, a pessimistic actor who has made it to the dizzying heights of weekly television drama and the beautiful girl who loves them both.

Australian actor, Scott Major, of Neighbours, Heartbreak High and critically acclaimed feature film Envy will wow audiences in his UK theatrical debut as Danny, the deluded TV actor who thinks he thinks he is god's gift to women. He is joined by innovative stand-up comedian Marcus Ryan who returns to the Edinburgh Festival this year after a successful stint with his own show at festivals around the world. Marcus plays the optimistic barman who dreams of making his mark as an actor. Hazel Ocskó, makes up the 'trois', playing the role of the girl in the middle, Sophie. Vivacious newcomer, Hazel ensures that Sophie will be irresistible for the boys on both sides of the bar.

Both Sides of the Bar will quench your thirst for comedy, love, envy and determination. There simply is not a better way to spend your lunch hour this August!

Previews 3-4 August £4.00
5-27 August (not 14) at 13:45
Smirnoff Underbelly
Tickets: £8.50 (£7.50) weekends £7.50 (£6.50) weekdays
Venue box office: 0870 745 3083 / www.underbelly.co.uk
Fringe box office: 0131 226 0000 / www.edfringe.com
Or visit bathroomfloorproductions.com for more information

For further information contact Donal Doherty at Converse Communications on 0778 654 3969 / donal@conversecom.com or Owen O'Leary @ Underbelly Press Office on 0870 745 3078 or press@underbelly.co.uk