

PRESS RELEASE

Leeds Tealights

The Aireborne Theatre Company returns to the Fringe with a new comedic force delivering an original performance that promises to reinvigorate the sketch comedy scene.

Inspired by socially desirable role models such as Alan Partridge, Larry David and the collectives of Monty Python, the comedy troupe sprinkle their sketches with a bizarre yet well-observed situational humor. Their audacious recurring characters inject an exceptional fluidity into the performance, a precious rarity within the sketch comedy genre.

Performing at the DUCK Comedy Festival in Durham for two consecutive years, the Tealights maintain their innovative approach to comedy while managing to mingle comfortably with old veterans Durham, Oxford and Cambridge.

Following Aireborne's highly acclaimed 2005 production Sunday Morning at the Centre of the World (* The Guardian, * Three Weeks) The Leeds Tealights' curiously intellectual sketches bring dynamic comedy to the company's evolving repertoire.

The Leeds Tealights will be performing at the HiFi club in Leeds and The Etcetera Theatre in London throughout June & July 2006. For more information and reviews visit:
